

Choosing an access control or door entry system is an important financial decision for most companies. The cost is of course important, but the system also needs to match your requirements and be completely reliable.

We are Gold registered installers for Paxton Access Control Systems. Paxton are a market leader within the access control industry. Their development team are focused on designing systems that are fit for their purpose, containing the important features that are necessary for well-run organisations. Their commitment has resulted in products winning a reputation for reliability and ease of use.

Implementing an access control system can feel like a big change in company practice. The access control should give the benefit of additional security without requiring time-consuming administration. Paxton Access systems are intuitive and straightforward to administer. The increased security is a benefit to all, rather than a benefit for some and a headache for those who have to administer it.

Tindall Security can supply, install and maintain a vast range of Paxton's access control and door entry products, tailored to your exact needs and specifications.
